ENGELBREKT - (continued)

What little we know of Engelbrekt is from the scanty accounts of the years 1434-36. His date of birth is not known but presumably was in the 1390's. He appears to have been of German ancestry. He lived in the mineral rich area of Sweden known as Bergslagen, comprising parts of Värmland, Västmanland and Dalarna. Here deposits of iron, copper, silver, gold, and zinc were mined at that time. There is evidence that German capital from the Hanseatic League was invested and German miners and metal workers were imported. Engelbrekt apparently was not a commoner but of the gentry and owner of an iron mine or iron works.

The revolt brought into being an army possibly of 20-30,000, the largest in Sweden up to that time. Engelbrekt apparently had some previous military experience, presumably as an officer. At any rate he proved to be an able military commander. There is a question about the source of weapons. Generally the commoners of Bergslagen were forbidden to bear "bow, dagger, club, spear, sword or broad axe". It must be assumed that with a source of iron that they made their own weapons.

The source of weapons is only one mystery. There is also the question of money. The peasant army did not plunder the countryside and Engelbrekt seems to have had ample funds to supply his army. Again, it is assumed, without proof. that Engelbrekt had financial help from the Hanseatic League which was at war with Eric of Pomerania at the time. However, as the revolt gained success, there was support from nobles and bishops and their retainers. These joined the revolt and furnished officers and expertise to the army.

The first object of attack was the "castles" of the Danish bailiffs. There were usually timber forts. Fire was an effective weapon. Red hot iron balls or firebrands thrown from catapaults and bonfires against the walls could bring capitulation. (to be continued)

Scandinavian Festival - Report

Thank you Monitor members for your great support of the Festival. Although our total attendance was down slightly from last year (1065 attendance) our gross income and net profit were up considerably. Our preliminary reports show an income of $5260.00 and the expenses so far of approximately $1500.00 Our usual practice has been to retain about $900.00 for the next festival so we should be able to split the net profit of about $2750.00 between the five lodges participating in the festival.

We sold out almost all the food, but thanks to all you good bakers the baked goods table had a few items left until almost closing time. Monitor's craft table also did very well thanks to the Nal och Trad group. Of the 96 workers who actually helped out in some way the day of the festival, 41 were Monitor members plus 4 dual members with Sierra Kronan. . I couldn't possibly list all who helped that day but I should call attention to the people who were in charge of certain areas. Open faced sandwich section, Margaret Carlson and Diedre Dahlberg. Entrance, Thelma Badgley, Ruth Volkoff, and June Delle. Swedish pancakes, Don Gustafson and Ernie Skorheim, Coffee Stand, Ruth and Bernie Lundberg, Secondary coffee stand and cookies, Karin Johnson, Jean Barney and Megham Barney who also represented as Maid of Sweden and carried the Swedish flag in the flag ceremony. Program, Ruth Veis. Craft Tables, Audrey Fales and Muriel Hiersman. Food ticket sales, Brian Buscher, Kurt Pfannkuch and Helen Forsty. A special thanks to all our bakers who contributed, but a BIG Special Thanks to Camilla Holm who baked 85 loaves of Swedish Limpa. Although the aebleskiver come under the heading of the Danes, Ellen Harrod who was in charge of this area is also a member of Monitor Lodge and Dick Westrup was her main helper. Ellen has also been very helpful in purchasing supplies for the festival. Ted Olson and Leo Krastins did a great job in keeping our tables clean and everything in order. And to all who came just to enjoy, thank you also. It was a very successful day and Monitor Lodge can be very proud of its part in the effort to promote the Scandinavian culture in the Sacramento area.

Just a line to say I'm living: that I'm not among the dead, though I'm getting more forgetful and mixed up in the head. I got used to my arthritis, to my dentures I'm resigned,

I can manage my bifocals but, God, I miss my mind.

For, sometimes I can't remember when I stand at the foot of the stair if I must go up for something or, have I just come down from there?

And before the fridge so often my poor mind is filled with doubt;

have I just put food away or have I come to take some out? And , there are times when it is dark with my night cap on my head

I don't know if I'm retiring or just getting out of bed. So, if it's my turn to write you there's no need for getting sore,

I may think that I have written and don't want to be a bore. So, remember that I love you and wish that you were near but now it's nearly mail time so I must say good-bye, dear. There I stand beside the mail box with a face so very red; instead of mailing you my letter I had opened it instead.
